

Today 03.22.2024 is the world day of scientific and technological hypocrisy on the management of terrestrial water.

Almost all the inventions regarding the management of world water have been wrong and we are paying the consequences because the doctors who have been at the bedside of water for a long time, suffering from bad management, have not understood that water is not only the most important resource for our food survival. It is also the world's most important energy carrier. It can create a lot of well-being and also a lot of disasters. The future of humanity's food and energy supply depends on water management. Water must not be stored with dams in mountain valleys to produce electricity, nor should it be stored as vapor in the atmosphere due to the production of thermal and nuclear energy. In both cases, the accumulated water can acquire unwanted kinetic energy due to torrential rains which, finding the basins too full, pour at very high speed into the valleys below or cause the collapse of the dams. In the second case, the excess water, in the form of steam, is 830 times denser than the atmospheric air that transports it and produces 830 times more damage. We earthlings do not need hydraulic jumps to produce hydroelectric energy. This can also be produced in the valleys where agriculture is developed by exploiting only the positive hydrostatic head throughout the year in always full water basins, which in the summer months use this water for agriculture while still continuing to produce energy, feeding themselves through gradual lifting from lakes and rivers, without risking floods and storms and without dispersing it into the sea, except in exceptional cases (when it is too abundant). The reputation of the best earth scientists who have never intervened to express their opinion on the sustainable proposals proposed by the undersigned on the website <https://www.spawhe.eu>, both for the design and management of water, and for the design and management of purification systems. As for the fact that compressed air and water together, are also respectively the best and cheapest source of energy and energy carrier of the world's land, sea, submarine, aeronautical and space transportation, the world's best scientists still have time to decide which side they're on, but not much. I invite them to read the latest publications that are perfectly in line with the forty inventions of the undersigned that have been ignored by the entire world ruling class and by the United Nations. Where is science and where is justice on planet earth, where wars are fought to conquer energy sources that are of no use and which have caused more harm than benefit to all of humanity. We could have reached the current scientific and technological level even without producing global warming. We could have reached the current scientific and technological level even without producing global warming. Indeed, if they had not denied experiments to those who are not linked to political, economic and scientific centers of power, we would be at a higher scientific and technological level because by producing energy coldly we would have been able to add together the push of Newton and Lorentz also in the means of aeronautical and space transport and we could have produced small artificial hearts that oxygenate the blood which would extend human life by many years.
